Economic impact

- UC Davis is a powerful economic engine for Northern California, generating $6.9 billion in annual economic activity and accounting for 69,000 jobs.
- A December 2011 economic analysis found that for every two jobs at UC Davis, an additional 1.2 jobs were created in other sectors of the region's economy in 2009-10, the year studied.
- Overall, UC Davis' two campuses — in Davis and Sacramento — constitute the second-largest individual employer in the Sacramento region, behind only the state of California.
